Electronic system to free officers from desk work

Police department moves to combat paperwork dilemma

By GEORGE MALEK

The increased necessity of paperwork has eroded the ability of the policeman to devote his time to "police duties." The filing of volumes of reports has turned many hours of each police officer's time to secretarial work, and Washington C.H. has taken steps to combat this dilemma.

The electronic age made its first appearance in police work several years ago with the computer tie-ins to state and national information banks.

These are used to check past records on those arrested and to check automobile registrations with the Ohio Bureau of Motor Vehicles. Now the department hopes to see electronic assistance free officers of some of the office work for which he is currently responsible.

WASHINGTON C.H. Police Chief Rodman Scott and City Manager Dan Wolford have estimated that each officer spends nearly three hours each day writing accident and investigation reports at the scene and then typing on forms when he returns to police headquarters.

In an effort to minimize this time, a new system of report filing is being initiated.

The city received approval of a federal grant in May, 1973, for the purchase of hand size tape recorders and transcribing equipment. The equipment was received in January, 1974, and after remodeling of the jail and offices was completed in August, a search was launched for a highly-qualified police secretary. Miss Jeri Maust, 422 Brentwood Drive, was employed and all facets of the new program were ready to proceed.

Under the new procedures, officers at the scene of an accident will record on tape the information which is required on the accident report. They will also take statements from the drivers and witnesses.

The recording tape will then be turned over to Miss Maust, who will transcribe the information onto a typed accident report form. It is estimated that the officers, once they become familiar with the new technique, will be able to gather the information in one-half to one-third the time required to write it out. They will encounter no typing time, and thus, they will spend much less time "bookkeeping" and more time patrolling.

When they are dispatched to investigate complaints, the same procedure can be followed. Instead of returning to the station to type the report, they can simply leave a tape for Miss Maust.

Wolford said that she can type an accident report in three to five minutes; most of the officers take 20 minutes or more.

The new system is being gradually integrated into the department. Chief Scott said the recording technique is presently

Public could pay $345 yearly

Costs of Ford's plan zoom

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House officials say President Ford's energy program could cost consumers $95 a year more than originally estimated, or as much as $345 a year.

The higher figure was disclosed Monday as eight Northeastern governors filed suit challenging the President's power to impose new taxes on imported oil as a way of reducing gasoline consumption and increasing domestic production.

The governors' suit against Ford was filed on behalf of New York, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Maine, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Vermont. It charged that Ford had taken a law meant for one purpose and used it for another without bothering to consult either the public or Congress, as the governors say is required.

A similar suit also was filed against Ford's plan by the New England Power Co. and Rep. Robert F. Drinan, D-Mass.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said an average family could pay as much as $345 a year extra as a result of higher prices on oil and the end of price lids on natural gas and petroleum. The $345 figure was given as "the absolute outside" cost of the program, while the average cost hike was estimated as $275 per household.

Originally the administration said the program would cost an average family an extra $250 a year. The new estimate now includes higher indirect costs for petroleum byproducts, Nessen said.

Part of Ford's plan calls for a new oil import tax imposing a $1 levy on each barrel of imported oil starting Friday. Another $1 is added on both March 1 and April 1.

Nessen said New England actually would fare better under Ford's plan than 19 Midwest, Southwest and Rocky Mountain states. The first $1 per barrel tariff would be waived for New England, and only 60 cents of the tariff would be applied for the region in March, according to Eric Zauser, acting deputy administrator of the Federal Energy Administration. The full $1 tariff would be applied in April, he said.

In a related development, Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott said that it is "thoroughly understood" that Ford will veto any debt ceiling bill carrying an amendment to delay the President's tariff on imported oil.

A provision delaying the tariffs for 90 days has been approved by the House Ways and Means Committee as part of a bill raising the limit on the national debt to $531 billion through June 30.

In other economic developments: — Stock market prices soared to the highest level since last August partly as a result of enthusiasm over declining interest rates. In the New York Stock Exchange's most active trading day in history, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials advanced 26.05 points to 692.66.

—New York's Chase Manhattan Bank, the third largest U.S. commercial bank, and Manufacturers Hanover Trust, fourth in size, followed a trend

Church may head CIA probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Frank Church, for years identified with legislative efforts to end the war in Vietnam, says he expects to be elected head of the Senate committee created to investigate U.S. intelligence operations.

The Senate voted 82 to 4 Monday to set up a special committee to carry out a nine-month, $750,000 probe of those operations.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield warned all agencies dealing with intelligence, including the CIA, the FBI and the Defense Department, to permit no documents or evidence of any kind to be misplaced or destroyed.

The allegations against those agencies are serious and deserve a sober inquiry that is "neither a whitewash nor a vendetta," Mansfield said.

Mansfield named six Democrats — all generally considered moderates or liberals — to the 11-member committee and said the panel's first task will be the selection of a competent and discreet staff.

Concern was expressed during the two-hour Senate debate that nothing be done to imperil national security and steps were taken to prevent a repetition of the leaks that characterized the Senate Watergate committee, now out of business.

Those voting against creating the committee were Sens. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga.; Strom Thurmond, R-S.C.; Jesse A. Helms, R-N.C., and William L. Scott, R-Va.

The Senate inquiry joins other probes under way by several other congressional committees and a special commission headed by Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Richard Ober, a CIA employee now on the staff of the National Security Council, testified before the Rockefeller commission Monday about allegations of illegal CIA domestic activities.

Church said he believes the Senate inquiry is too serious to be dealt with "in any frivolous or carnival-like manner."

The Idaho Democrat, who was a principal sponsor of amendments to cut off funds for U.S. military activities in Cambodia, Laos and Vietnam, said every effort will be made to select a staff that will not leak material to the public.

At the same time, he said that public hearings will be held whenever possible and that transcripts of secret information will be issued when public hearings are not appropriate.

Church, who has expressed some interest in his party's presidential nomination, said he will forego presidential politics while working on the committee.

Church, 49, is widely expected to become chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee when its present chairman, Sen. John J. Sparkman, D-Ala., retires. He has obtained some expertise into CIA activities overseas through his chairmanship of the panel's subcommittee on multinational corporations.

Mansfield had said he would appoint some new Senate faces to the committee and his list includes three senators in their first terms.

They are Sen. Walter D. Huddleston, D-Ky., elected two years ago, and Sens. Gary Hart, D-Colo., and Robert Morgan, D-N.C., both elected last November.

Public objections top hearing on gas pinch

"The entire day was consumed by public objections," Washington C.H. City Manager Dan Wolford said after he attended the public hearing Monday with the Ohio Public Utilities Commission in Columbus.

The hearing was scheduled to consider the authorization to the Dayton Power and Light Co. to assess penalties against industrial and commercial customers who have surpassed their prescribed natural gas allotments.

The DP&L requested the right to assess penalties of up to $1 per 100 cubic feet of gas used over allocations after the Federal Power Commission allowed such penalty costs to be imposed by the Columbia Gas Transmission Corp. — the natural gas supplier for the Dayton Power and Light Co.

Wolford was one of three local delegates selected to attend the public hearing. Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce executive vice president John Marcum and Lyle Ranson, president of Batjak, Inc., were also appointed by a group of local commercial and industrial businessmen to appear as local representatives at the PUCO hearing.

WOLFORD SAID the primary objection on the part of churches, schools and industries was the possibility of complete cutoff of natural gas supplies.

"The people were more concerned with this possibility than with the penalty rates," Wolford said. "The penalties were a concern but my interpretation of the major concern was of not having any gas at all."

Wolford said the day was spent in listening to testimonies from consumers objecting to the allotment plan. Although there was no testimony given by DP&L, Wolford said the PUCO was scheduled to hear testimonies from the attorneys of both industrial customers and the DP&L Tuesday.

Wolford said the hearing officials "did not indicate at all when they would turn over their evidence to the commission members for a final decision."

He said he felt it was very important that local residents follow the PUCO hearings closely. "The hearings are very important with the possible impacts on employment, businesses and the whole economy — we can't afford to have more unemployment."

A special meeting has been scheduled by the PUCO Feb. 6 at 9 a.m. for a governmental hearing. Wolford said he did not know as yet if he would be attending this hearing.

The weatherman advises anyone who is forced to venture outside today or tomorrow should follow this young lady's example and keep their umbrella within easy reach. The rain isn't supposed to cease until Thursday and temperatures are forecast in the mid to upper 30s for today and in the 40s Wednesday. The young lady is Vicki Martindale, who resides on W. Paint Street, and was caught by the camera walking to work this morning.

Vehicle contract awarded

School rent situation eyed by commissioners

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners Monday afternoon met with Edwin M. Nestor, city schools superintendent, and Fred L. Domenico, of the Washington C.H. Board of Education, to discuss budgetary problems being experienced at the Fayette Progressive School.

The city board of education representatives and county commissioners discussed the present rent situation with the school for the mentally handicapped and the commissioners agreed to meet with Mrs. Claire Weade and Carl Whitaker, of the Fayette County Board of Mental Retardation.

The Fayette Progressive School is now paying $500 a month rent for use of the former Sunnyside Elementary School in accordance with a new contract with the Washington C.H. Board of Education, which began Jan. 1 and continues thru Aug. 31.

The school previously paid $350 per month rent for the school. A .65-mill operating levy for the Fayette Progressive School was defeated in the November general election and the Fayette County Board of Mental Retardation has been seeking solutions to budgetary problems at the school.

NO DEFINITE date was set for the meeting between the county commissioners and the members of the board of mental retardation, commission chairman Ray Warner said. The commissioners awarded Carroll Halliday Inc., 907 Columbus Ave., the contract for a new vehicle for the Fayette County Welfare Department.

Carroll Halliday Inc. was low bidder at $3,038.42 for a new Ford Maverick. Others bidding were Billie Wilson Chevrolet with a bid of $3,075 for a Chevrolet Nova and Ron Farmer's Auto Supermarket at $3,148.81 for a Plymouth Valiant.

The commissioners also entered into an agreement with Frank Darling, of Darling Tree and Landscaping Service, to remove a tree beside the Fayette County Health Department at a cost not to exceed $85 and to prune trees on the Courthouse lawn at a cost not to exceed $62 with the total cost for both projects at $147.

The commissioners also met Monday with the Rev. Allen Puffenberger, of the Grace United Methodist Church, and Mrs. Edna Naylor to discuss a project being planned to aid the aged in Fayette County.

Warner said the meeting was just an informative session to describe the purpose of such a program for the county. Rev. Puffenberger was to attend a meeting in Columbus to receive more information from the Mid-Ohio Regional Planning Commission on Aid for the Aged and report back to the commissioners.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 2 to 5 and 7 until 9 p.m. Wednesday.

Supreme Court takes actions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has agreed to decide whether a criminal defendant can constitutionally be tried in his jail clothing when he is in jail because he can't post bail.

In other actions Monday, the justices: —Declined to review the conviction of G. Gordon Liddy, serving a sentence of up to 20 years on burglary, wiretapping and conspiracy charges in the Watergate break-in.

—Ruled that federal courts must meet more stringent standards than state legislatures in drawing up reapportionment plans to equalize population in state legislative districts.

—Tentatively set oral arguments for late February on a dispute between Atlantic Coast states and the federal government over royalties from off-shore oil.

The jail clothes case arises from the conviction of a Houston, Tex., man, Harry Lee Williams.

Demos push school aid plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Majority Democrats apparently plan to speed a controversial supplemental school appropriations bill along to GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes by the end of this week.

House Finance Chairman Myrl Shoemaker, D-88 Bourneville, said he expects it to clear his committee today and be scheduled for a House floor vote Wednesday.

He said Senate Majority Leader Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, then will seek to get it through the Senate promptly, although it could mean an unusual Friday session for the upper chamber.

The bill, which met with Republican opposition in the House and has had no visible support from the Rhodes administration, would earmark $91.3 million in surplus funds for school districts beginning in March. It would mean $40 per pupil for each of the more than 600 school districts in the state.

Democrats have the votes in both houses to enact the measure without Republican help, but lack the votes to override a Rhodes veto.

They apparently are betting Rhodes will sign the bill, particularly since he made a campaign pledge to place any state surplus funds into financially troubled school districts.

Shoemaker, who introduced the bill four days before Rhodes took office, indicated he thinks the governor would have trouble vetoing the measure.

Asked if he thinks Rhodes would regard getting the bill from a Democratic legislature a problem, he replied "I suspect he would."

The finance chairman was armed with figures showing the plight of some of the hardest pressed districts. He said more than 100 of them already have had to borrow against future appropriations and that as many more will have to do so if the bill is not passed.

The Senate Finance Committee, which has been holding hearings on an identical bill to save time, halted its deliberations Monday night and decided to await the arrival of the House measure.

Chairman Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown, said he expects his panel will meet Wednesday night for that purpose.

Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, said he plans to offer at least two amendments in the Senate committee.

One would specify that if the state ends its fiscal year June 30 and finds the surplus gone, the $91.3 million would count as part of the school districts' appropriations for the 1975-1976 school year.

The other would provide that the State Controlling Board would have the authority, in the event of declining revenues, to reduce allowances to districts on a month-to-month basis. There already is authority in the bill for the superintendent of public instruction, acting with the Office of Budget & Management, to order reductions.

Aronoff and others have expressed concern that economic conditions might continue to deteriorate in the five months remaining in the fiscal year. His amendments, he said, "would make the legislature responsible, as it should be, in case the money isn't there."

Sen. Donald J. Pease, D-13 Oberlin, who served as vice chairman of the Education Administration Review Committee, urged Monday night that the legislature "make it clear" to the school districts that the appropriation is "a one-time thing."

He said otherwise, they might think tacking an additional $40 per pupil on to their appropriations now would make them believe it was going to be part of their permanent funding.

Pease said a new school foundation formula devised by the review committee, slated for consideration by the legislature this spring, will seek to equalize state aid to school districts and, in effect, shouldn't have to begin by giving every district, rich and poor, a flat $40.

Three new bills were introduced in the Senate Monday night, including one that carried the names of all 21 Democrats in the upper chamber.

Meshel is chief sponsor of the measure which repeals the Ferguson Act, which bans strikes by public employes, and establishes machinery for them to bargain with their employers. Similar legislation already has been offered in the House.

Other new proposals include from $50 to $250 the amount an employer of casual or domestic help can pay out in wages over a three month period before has to obtain workmen's compensation insurance, and require places of public accommodation that have pay rest room facilities to also provide free facilities.

New system

used only in some major investigations.

The chief explained that many of the standard forms will have to be revised for conversion to the recording system. Accident forms, for instance, will have numbered lines so the officer can give a line reference prior to the information to be typed on the line. "We will incorporate the new technique as we run out of our stock of the present forms," said Chief Scott. Complete conversion to the new system is expected this spring.

Another move in the same direction has included the employment of several jailer-dispatchers, some of whom have been employed with federal funds under the Comprehensive Employment Training Act. They man the radios, receive telephone complaints, and handle many of the in-office duties formerly assigned to patrolmen.

Only a relatively small number of persons can meet the stringent requirements for patrolmen. The city has found it easier to shift some of the non-patrol duties to supplemental help than to find additional qualified patrolmen. In addition, those who are interested in becoming patrolmen often serve an "apprenticeship" as a dispatcher to familiarize them with the police operation. Several have then decided to take the patrolman's examination and have eventually joined the force.

IN ADDITION to her transcribing duties, Miss Maust handles department correspondence, sets appointments for Chief Scott, and does clerical work for Police Specialist Larry Walker.

"We are very fortunate to have a person with such outstanding qualifications," said the city manager. "She has three and a half years experience in police secretarial work with the Federal Bureau of Investigation and is a super typist." Wolford added. He explained Miss Maust had become discouraged with the "Washington D.C. rat-race," and was seeking to return to the quiet of her home town.

Having someone of her caliber has been essential in moving the new system from the drawing board to actual implementation, and Washington C.H. police officers are glad she decided to return home since none have been overly excited about using their skills as typists.

The new program would provide Washington C.H. not only with happier policemen, but with a more efficient police department.

Stock list moderates

NEW YORK (AP) — Stocks were moderately higher today after a wild morning of rush buying and profit taking in the wake of Monday's record-breaking activity.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 2.51 at 695.17, and gainers held about a 3-1 edge on losers at the New York Stock Exchange.

The NYSE ticker tape ran as much as seven minutes late during the morning in a crush of orders that exceeded even the frenetic pace of Monday, when the Big Board was en route to a record 32.13 millionshare day. By noon, however, the tape had caught up with trading on the floor.

American Telephone & Telegraph, the nation's most widely held stock, led the NYSE's most-active list, up 1/2 at 48 1/2.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index rose .65 to 73.43.

Analysts said the market couldn't have been expected to keep up the pace it had been setting for long. When activity looks out of control to veteran traders, they generally tend to step back to wait until things simmer down a little.

Brokers said the market was moving today largely on the psychological impact of Monday's upward burst, when the Dow jumped 26.05 points.

IBM, reopening after a trading halt Monday, traded at 186 1/2, up 23% from last Friday's close. The issue was responding to a court ruling in favor of the company late Friday which Wall Streeters generally agreed was an important catalyst in the general market gains Monday.

Air fare structure changed

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Airlines plan to raise fares between the United States and Europe an average of 10 per cent on April 1 but are offering cheaper rates to people who buy tickets 60 days in advance.

They also proposed reviving the youth fare, offering reductions for those between 12 and 21, but the U.S. government may block this.

The 30 scheduled airlines of the International Air Transport Association announced Monday the plan they hope will boost sagging transatlantic travel and help them compete with charter flights operated by the nonscheduled airlines. But the lowest summer rate proposed is still 35 per cent more than the fare Pan American World Airways charges on its charter flights for groups.

These are the key provisions of the proposal:—The so-called APEX ticket for people of all ages who book and pay 60 days before departure and stay abroad from 22 to 45 days. A round-trip between New York and London will cost $295 in winter, $309 in spring and autumn and $395 in the summer.

—The regular 22-45 day excursion fare between New York and London will rise to $363 in winter, $393 in spring and autumn and $493 in summer. This ticket does not require payment 60 days in advance.

—The round-trip economy class fare between New York and London without the 22-45 day restriction will rise to $584 in winter, $626 in spring and fall and $764 in summer.

—The proposed round-trip youth fare between New York and London would be $387 in winter, $411 in spring and fall and $458 during the summer. It also has no time restrictions and would appeal to students wanting to spend a summer, semester or school year in Europe. A ticket for a summer abroad, for example, would be $306 less than the $764 fare for anyone over 21 staying the same period.

Stein backs tax slash

WASHINGTON (AP) — Herbert Stein, chief economic adviser in the Nixon administration and preacher of "oldtime religion" as a guide to prosperity, has joined the swollen ranks of economists calling for a tax cut.

Stein, who left the Ford administration in September after serving as chairman of the president's Council of Economic Advisers since 1971, told the House Ways and Means Committee on Monday that tax-cut legislation should be acted on promptly.

Six months earlier, Stein opposed cutting taxes for Americans because "we should not be putting $5 billion or $10 billion in their hands which they'd only go out and spend."

Levi defends 'wishy-washy' positions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen.-designate Edward H. Levi says he often has to defend himself "for appearing to be so wishy-washy that I had no views."

Levi expressed reluctance to state definite views on a variety of issues during his first appearance before the Senate Judiciary Committee. He returns for more questioning today.

Levi, now president of the University of Chicago, said he has avoided taking public positions on controversial political issues "to protect the essential neutrality of the university."

The nominee usually avoided stating his views in response to questions on the death penalty, national security wiretaps, whether the FBI should keep files of unsolicited allegations about members of Congress and other citizens, whether the Voting Rights Act should be expanded and how aggressively the antitrust laws should be enforced.

Levi, nominated to succeed William B. Saxbe who is becoming ambassador to India, said he doesn't want to be locked into a firm position before he reviews the issues with Justice Department officials.

But he did commit himself to try to draft guidelines regulating the scope and procedures for government wiretapping in national security cases, and for other FBI surveillance and FBI files of unsolicited allegations.

"I would recognize it as an obligation to prepare such guidelines, obviously in consultation with the Congress and this committee," he testified. But he added the caveat — "It may turn out that it can't be done."

Levi said he believes that wiretaps conducted without a court warrant should be used only in cases of "genuine foreign involvement." But he did not commit himself to Saxbe's position that such taps should be used only when there is evidence that the activity under investigation is organized, financed and directed from abroad.

Sugarless staff of life

A government cereal chemist's advocacy of unsweetened bread has brought to light surprising date about the amount of sugar that goes into the staff of life, American style. The daily output of America's bakers is about 50 million one-pound loaves, into which goes some three million pounds of sugar. At current prices that is about two million dollars worth of sugar a day.

Baking companies would like to avoid this cost. The editor of Baker's Digest said the other day that "sugar prices are hurting bakers horribly, and they're extremely interested in getting around using all that sugar."

Enter the abovementioned cereal chemist, Karl F. Finney, who works at the Agriculture Department's Grain Marketing Research Center in Manhattan, Kan. Having developed a sugarless loaf, he is singing its praises; he says it tastes - and toasts - better than sweetened bread.

Nor are these its only virtues, according to Finney. His rather complex formula for replacing the sugar results in a loaf which, he says, has 50 per cent more protein than standard loaves and also has substantially more lysine, an essential amino acid. Thus if the Finney loaf were adopted Americans would get better nutrition than most bread now gives them, and at lower cost. And oh, yes, the sugarless bread is less fattening.

Maybe there are good reasons why bread should be about eight per cent sugar on the average, as at present. Offhand, we can't think of any.

A WORD EDGEWISE.... By John P. Roche

A carbon copy caper

The announcement that the Central Intelligence Agency began to collect dossiers on domestic "subversives" as early as the fall of 1967 created quite a stir among former officials of the Johnson Administration, who denied that the late President had ever authorized such activities. I would like to enter a separate opinion indicating, first, that President Johnson did not explicitly put the CIA in business domestically; but that, second, the CIA's endeavors were a logical outcome of actions taken by the former President in the fall of 1967.

For background one must understand several considerations that in 1975 can easily be forgotten. The massive protest at the Pentagon in the fall of 1967 put L.B.J. on edge. Specifically he was convinced that the anti-war organizers were funded and trained by the Communist powers, notably Castro's Cuba and the North Vietnamese. He based this partly on the incessant pilgrimages that the left-wing militants made to the Holy Places of the Communist world. Moreover, in 1967 the FBI was cooperating as fully as it ever had or would with the CIA.

The President instructed Director J. Edgar Hoover to investigate any foreign connections protesters might have. He also established an Inter-departmental Intelligence Unit (IDIU) under the direction of Attorney General Ramsey Clark to collect available information on potential rioters. All departments of the government were ordered to cooperate with the IDIU, which produced a weekly "situation report."

Among the agencies that took this instruction seriously was the Army, which launched an almost ludicrous counterintelligence operation, bugging trees at protest meetings, and engaging in surveillance of all and sundry. This caper was blown some four or five years ago. In fact, it was in this space that the information first became public that the (by then) beatified Ramsey Clark was supposedly in charge of the whole incredible affair. Clark's incompetence permitted the Army to run wild.

This much is fact, based on personal knowledge. However, what I am prepared to wager was that the CIA came into the act by the same route. Let me take a hypothetical situation. A well-known anti-war militant is in Havana. The FBI, properly, asks the CIA to keep an eye on him and report on any suspicious connections. This was legitimate CIA activity. Shortly the CIA transmits a dossier to the FBI, but - being a bureaucracy - keeps a carbon. Gradually the file of carbons builds up, but - and this is vital - the FBI got the originals and reported on them to the President.

So much for hypothesis. Let me return to the facts as I know them. Because of my long-accumulated knowledge of the activities of various left-wing groups, President Johnson was in the habit of asking me to evaluate the reports on "subversives" he received from Director Hoover. By and large I thought the quality was poor. Hoover, for example, would assume that if some technique was employed in Berkeley on Tuesday and the identical ploy in New York on Wednesday, there must be a conspiratorial link. To this my reply was that, absent hard proof, the best explanation was that the New Yorkers had seen the California stunt on Tuesday night's TV, liked it, and tried it on for size the next day.

However, among the documents submitted to the President by the FBI were letters from abroad. Militant X in Havana, for instance, sent a long letter to Militant Y in Chicago, which was intercepted and photographed. The Director seemed to feel that a Havana postmark was proof conclusive that Castro was running the show - I insisted on reading the letters and judging the content. They were utterly banal, the sort of exhortations about the wonders of "Socialism" and what it could do for our "corrupt society" that had a missionary rather than a conspiratorial message. I recall one vividly. After I had noted the letter was innocuous, L.B.J. said, "But doesn't the fact he sent it from Communist Cuba mean anything?" I replied, "Suppose he had sent it from the Virgin Islands? What would that mean?" He grunted.

To return to the main point, my hunch is that the CIA's dossiers on domestic "subversives" began as carbons of material obtained for the FBI. Whether the Agency's domestic counterintelligence operations burgeoned under Nixon - that is, whether the CIA went into domestic business after J. Edgar Hoover broke relations with the White House - is a separate question that the Blue Ribbon Panel must investigate.

Chessie crews back on job

By The Associated Press
Railroad crews were working on the Chessie System lines in Ohio again today after a sixhour walkout Monday that began in Chicago on the Burlington Northern Railroad over lack of a contract. The walkout spread quickly.

Pickets marched in front of Chesapeake & Ohio terminals in Toledo, Columbus, Fostoria and Cincinnati and at nearby Huntington, Charleston and Peach Creek, W. Va. and Russell, Ky.

Chesapeake & Ohio was the only line of the Chessie System affected. Chessie also operates the Baltimore & Ohio, Western Maryland and Chicago South Side.

R. D. Pomeroy, superintendent of the Ohio division in Columbus, said freight service returned to near normal about noon Monday. Passenger service was not disrupted.

Ohio Perspective

Factories moving from state

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—One of every 20 manufacturers responding to a recent survey plans to move all or part of its plant operation out of the state this year, the Ohio Manufacturers Association reports.

One of every 16 responding to a similar survey last year said the same thing.

The OMA called these percentages "an item of particular concern to the overall economy of the state."

Only 1 or 2 per cent of respondents to annual surveys in 1971, 1972 and 1973 expressed plans to leave Ohio.

"This increase is especially disturbing to industrial leaders and economic forecasters," said OMA President Thomas R. Johnson.

The association said among reasons given for the decisions were lack of electrical power, shortage of natural gas and unfavorable tax structure in Ohio.

Seven hundred manufacturers responded to the survey covering 1,300 companies around the state.

The OMA described the attitude of Ohio manufacturers about 1975 as guarded optimism despite worry about energy, government regulations and wage-price controls.

"A majority of those OMA members participating in the survey plan to hold existing employment levels or to slightly reduce present employment levels," the OMA said.

"In addition, they will increase or continue current investment levels, add new plants and equipment and continue to introduce new improved products in 1975."

The survey showed 10 per cent plan to increase employment this year, down from 31 per cent a year ago; 11 per cent plan to reduce employment, down from 20 per cent a year ago, and 77 per cent plan to keep the same employment levels, compared to 49 per cent a year ago.

Most of the increases, the OMA said, will come in administrative and sales personnel.

The OMA said 54 per cent said they planned to expand capital facilities in Ohio during this year, about the same again in 1974.

"A significant result of the survey showed that although 61 per cent anticipate the same or increased sales, 53 per cent believe that profits will be lower," the OMA said.

"Sixty-nine per cent indicated prices will increase by 10 per cent or more. This is down from 94 per cent in 1974.

"The reasons given for this increase were higher material costs and higher wages and salaries. Seventy-eight per cent indicated that material costs would increase by 10 per cent or more and 93 per cent indicated that wages and salaries would go up by 10 per cent or more."

The most infectious of all diseases is the pneumonic form of plague, with a mortality rate of 99.99 per cent. Leprosy transmitted by Mycobacterium leprae is the least infectious of communicable diseases.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Damon and Pythias: more than just good friends?

DEAR ABBY: My friend and I have a difference of opinion. He says Damon and Pythias were homosexuals. I say they were straight. Can you check this out and let us know?

C AND B

DEAR C AND B: I wrote to twelve leading universities. Their responses included yesses, noes and maybes.

I think the Chairman of the English Department at the University of Chicago summed it up very well:

"DEAR ABBY: You asked if Damon and Pythias were gay. In dealing with characters of such remote antiquity, who exist more in the realm of legend, it is sometimes difficult to find much evidence on the most intimate details of their private lives.

"Damon and Pythias were famous for their devotion to each other, and they were Greeks. Beyond that, I think whatever they did was pretty much their own business, and even if I knew, I wouldn't say.

"One less than eminent authority said to me: 'I think Damon was okay, but I'm not sure about Pythias.'"

Sincerely,

STUART M. TAVE

DEAR ABBY: I have a better answer to your CONFIDENTIAL TO "SAME FIGHT EVERY YEAR":

Apparently someone wrote in to say that she and her husband fought every year about whether they should go to HER parents' for Christmas and Thanksgiving dinner, or to HIS parents'.

You suggested a compromise. Thanksgiving go to HER parents' and Christmas, go to HIS.

I also fought that battle for years, and finally came up with the perfect solution. Now I have my own Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners. I invite my parents and my in-laws to our home. They can either accept or decline. In any case, the problem of where to go is solved.

NO MORE FIGHTS

DEAR NO MORE: You're right. Your solution IS better.

DEAR ABBY: Last Christmas, when we had our annual Christmas party, an unusual thing happened.

Some of our guests mistook the "7 PM" on our invitation for "4 PM," and while we were just half-way prepared for our party, two couples arrived at 4 PM.

We were shocked but invited them in, offered them a drink and took turns chatting with them. In the meantime, we were trying to prepare the food, drinks decorations and ourselves.

After a while we found out what had happened, but we didn't ask them to come back later and they didn't offer.

Abby, what would you have done in this case?

GOOFED IN VEGAS

DEAR GOOFED: Same as you. I appreciate your sharing this "goof" because it gives me the opportunity to tell my readers to write out the hour ("seven o'clock in the evening," instead of using the numerical figure "7").

The three hours prior to the arrival of guests are the most hectic.

DEAR ABBY: I think I have set a record, I am 84 years old and am going to help my daughter celebrate her 50th wedding anniversary.

Can you tell me if there is another mother who lived to celebrate her daughter's golden wedding? Thank you.

OLLIE DUNLAP

DEAR OLLIE: I don't know, but I'll ask. Readers?

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Tuesday, Jan. 28, the 28th day of 1975. There are 337 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
In 1871, Paris surrendered to Germany in the Franco-Prussian War.

On this date—
In 1821, Peru's independence from Spain was formally proclaimed.

In 1878, the world's first commercial telephone switchboard was installed for 21 subscribers in New Haven, Conn.

In 1915, President Woodrow Wilson signed legislation creating the U.S. Coast Guard.

In 1932, Japanese forces attacked the Chinese garrison at Shanghai.

In 1945, in World War II, an American truck convoy from India crossed the frontier between Burma and China, reopening the Burma Road.

Ten years ago: —General Motors reported 1964 profits of $1.73 billion — the highest net earnings ever registered by any company in the United States.

Five years ago: Israeli planes struck at a suburb of Cairo for the first time since the 1967 war.

One year ago: After the October war, Israel lifted its siege of Suez City, surrendered 300 square miles of Egyptian territory and freed Egypt's encircled Third Army.

Today's birthdays: Pianist Artur Schnabel is 86. Artist Claes Oldenburg is 46.

Thought for today: The God who gave us life, gave us liberty at the same time. — President Thomas Jefferson, 1743-1826.

The most recent reports from the FBI indicate that the rate of serious crime continues to drop in most Ohio cities despite slight increases nationally.

Jud-I-Ques plan workshop

The Jud-I-Ques Western Square Dance Club held a dance Saturday evening at Eastside School with Jaye Fitch as caller.

In addition to local members present were Mr. and Mrs. Ike Robinson of Danville, Ky., who were former members, and eight couples from the Hospitality Squares of Xenia.

On Saturday, Feb. 1, the club will hold a business meeting at 7:30 p.m. and a workshop will follow concerning new figures, to be conducted by the club caller, Jim Lambert.

Local DAR plan meeting

The Washington C.H. chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will meet in the home of Mrs. Edward Sexton, 363 Carolyn Rd., Monday, Feb. 3, at 2 p.m. The program, "History of DAR," will be presented by Mrs. H. H. Haworth, State Historian of Wilmington, and Miss Elizabeth Trent of the local chapter.

Hostesses assisting Mrs. Sexton will be Mrs. Albert Caplinger, Mrs. Grove Davis, Mrs. Dale Smith, Miss Kathleen Davis, Miss Jane Davis, Miss Mabel Briggs, Mrs. Gilbert Adams, Mrs. Charles Wagner, Mrs. Ralph Minton, Mrs. Gene Mark, Mrs. Karl Kellenberger, and Miss Lida Grace Wissler.

Crusaders Class to meet Saturday

Christian Crusaders of South Side Church of Christ will meet at 6:30 p.m. Saturday in Fellowship Hall for a covered dish dinner.

Mrs. Florence Schiller will bring devotions and Mrs. John Sparks will provide entertainment. Hostesses will be Mrs. Guy Patton and Mrs. Laura Huff.

Class supper held in home of Deatley family

The Adult Class of the Church of the Nazarene met in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Deatley for a carry-in supper. Kenneth Knisley presented devotions and Mrs. Deatley provided the entertainment.

Present were Rev. and Mrs. Dale Orihood and Timmy, Mrs. Carol Wolfe and Kari and Mark, Tammy Wilson, Mrs. Mel Wieland, Mrs. Dorothy Wallace, Mr. Bud Haines, Mr. and Mrs. Tom McNeal, Mr. and Mrs. Knisley and Jennifer, and Mr. and Mrs. Deatley and Kathy, Cindy and Randy.

The group will meet again March 7 in the home of Rev. and Mrs. Orihood.

MR. AND MRS. ROY JACOBS

'Open house' is planned for golden anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jacobs of Jamestown will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary at their home at 5 Clemans Ave., on Feb. 9. Mr. and Mrs. Jacobs were married in the Methodist parsonage by the Rev. Mitchell in Jeffersonville. They have spent most of their married life in Fayette and Greene counties.

"Open House" is planned by their daughter, Mrs. Thant (Lois) Chitty and two nieces, Mrs. Patty Chance, who was reared in the Jacobs home, and Mrs. Clarice Morgan, from 2 until 5 p.m. The couple requests no gifts.

Mrs. Jacobs was the former Ruby Bowen. Mr. Jacobs retired three years ago from the Ohio Bureau of Employment as farm representative. She is employed at Curly's Fine Foods in Jamestown.

They also have two grandchildren, Roger Chitty of Jamestown, and Diane Chitty, a student at Ohio State University.

Saucery

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN
FAVORITE meats can easily become ho-hum dishes. The trick is to vary them with new additions. Fruit flavor often does the trick. For example, canned apricots cooked along with such family favorites as pork chops, lamb cubes or chicken make for a delicious change of pace.

The secret of the Oriental sauce that sparks this pork chop bake is apricot syrup. It flavors the chops, green peppers and onions as they cook.

CALIFORNIA PORK CHOP BAKE

6 loin pork chops, 3/4-inch thick
Salt and pepper
3 tablespoons salad oil
1 can (30 ounces) apricot halves
1/4 cup white wine
2 teaspoons corn starch
2 green peppers
3/4 pound fresh white onions, peeled and cooked or 1 can (15 1/4 ounces) white onions, drained

Sprinkle pork chops with salt and pepper; brown chips in hot oil in large skillet. Remove chops to large shallow baking dish. Pour off fat from skillet.

Drain apricots reserving 1 cup of the syrup. Blend 1 cup apricot syrup, wine, corn starch, 1 teaspoon salt and dash pepper in bowl; pour into skillet in which you browned chops. Bring mixture to a boil, stirring constantly. Simmer 1 minute; pour over chops in baking dish. Cover with foil. Bake in 375 degree F. oven for 15 minutes.

Cut green peppers in half; discard seeds and pithy interiors. Cut green peppers into 3/4-inch thick lengthwise slices; add peppers to chops. Spoon some of gravy over chops and green peppers; cover and bake 20 minutes more. Add drained apricots and onions. Spoon gravy from dish over all ingredients. Cover and bake 20 minutes more or until chops are done. (Total cooking time for dish is about 55 minutes.) Serves 6.

For this version of lamb stew, stir sherry and soy sauce into the apricot syrup, then simmer with lamb cubes, water chestnuts and apricot halves and serve over rice.

LAMB STEW

1 1/2 pounds boneless lean lamb shoulder, cut into 1 1/2 inch cubes
2 tablespoons salad oil
3/4 cup chopped onion
1 clove garlic, crushed
1 can (30 ounces) apricot halves
Water
3/4 cup dry sherry
2 tablespoons soy sauce

1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 1/2 tablespoons corn starch
1 can (8 1/2 ounces) water chestnuts, drained
1 package (6 ounces) frozen pea pods
Cooked white rice

Brown half of lamb at a time in hot oil in large pot; remove with slotted spoon and set aside. Saute onion and garlic in drippings.

Drain apricots, reserving 1 cup of apricot syrup, 2 cups water, the sherry, soy sauce, ginger, pepper and lamb cubes into onion mixture. Bring to a boil; reduce heat. Cover and simmer 1 1/2 hours or until meat is tender.

Blend corn starch with 1/2 cup water; stir into stew mixture until blended. Add water chestnuts and pea pods; cook, stirring frequently, for several minutes or until pea pods are tender. Stir in apricots and cook just until heated. Serve with rice. Serves 6.

Cantonese Chicken with its typically Chinese ingredients and sweet-sour sauce is easy to make. It's ready to serve in 60 minutes.

CANTONESE CHICKEN

1 can (30 ounces) apricot halves
1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut into serving pieces
1/4 cup salad oil
2 onions, sliced
2 chicken bouillon cubes
1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
2 tablespoons soy sauce
2 tablespoons cider vinegar
1/4 cup cold water
1 tablespoon corn starch
1 cup diagonally sliced celery
1 green pepper, diagonally sliced
3 cups hot cooked rice

Drain apricots, reserving the syrup. Brown the chicken on all sides in hot oil in large skillet; set chicken aside.

Saute onions in drippings until golden. Pour off fat from skillet. Add apricot syrup and bouillon cubes; heat and stir occasionally until bouillon cubes dissolve. Stir in ginger, soy sauce and vinegar; add chicken, spooning some of the liquid over chicken. Cover skillet; simmer about 25 to 30 minutes or until chicken is tender. Remove chicken to warm serving platter and keep warm.

Blend water and corn starch; stir into skillet. Simmer about 30 seconds or until mixture is thickened. Add reserved apricots, celery and green pepper; cook about 3 minutes or just until vegetables are crisp-tender. Spoon mixture over chicken in dish; serve with rice. Serves 6.

Soviet trade needed by U.S.?

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — To Harold B. Scott and his associates there is a serious question of whether the United States can afford to let trade with the Soviet Union go down the drain.

In effect, that seems to be the outlook for potentially billions of dollars in transactions between the two countries after the Soviets repudiated the 1973 trade agreement with the United States.

The chief impediments resulted from tying the agreement to emigration of Soviet Jews to Israel, the restrictions of credits to the Soviets, and limitations in the agreement to offer most favored nation treatment.

"The motivation of those concerned with emigration is high," said Scott, former assistant secretary of commerce and now president of the US-USSR Trade and Economic Council. But, he asks, "Is it too much for our blood in terms of economic policy?"

Like others in the United States, Scott believes the trade agreement with the Soviet Union should be divorced from the emigration question, not amorally, but simply so each matter can be considered on its merits.

Scott, chief U.S. operating officer of the binationally staffed organization, formed to facilitate meetings, discussions and contracts between American businessmen and Soviet trade officials, quantifies the importance of U.S.-U.S.S.R. trade this way:

—U.S. government studies show $15,000 of exports equal one U.S. job. Last year, U.S. exports to the Soviet Union totaled $631.3 million. So, 42,000 Americans were employed because of exports to the Soviets.

The potential damage can be shown even more convincingly when related in terms of cost per job.

This is how Scott figures it:

—To create one job requires $15,000 of exports. Exports move on credit. In the United States, the Export-Import Bank offers one-third financing to trading partners at 3 per cent below prime rate. The remainder of financing is private.

One-third of $15,000 is $5,000. That is, $5,000 of exports are subsidized by the U.S. government — through the Ex-Im Bank — at a cost to taxpayers of 3 per cent, or $150, a small price for keeping a person employed.

Scott goes further. It isn't beyond probability for U.S. exports to the Soviets to reach $6 billion, given the proper incentives, he feels. That, he notes, would mean 400,000 jobs at a cost of $150 a job.

The statistics become dizzying when you add the impact of imports from the Soviets. For every dollar of imports, he states, another dollar is spent domestically for distribution, finance, promotion and other services. About $9,000 of those services equals one job.

So, says Scott, for every $100 million of imports foregone, because of terms unacceptable to the other country, you lost 11,000 jobs.

Movies make startling comeback

By BOB THOMAS

Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Can the movie industry continue to defy the nation's economy and maintain prosperity in 1975?

Film leaders are confident, and they point to the list of attractions for the coming year.

While many other industries were hurting in 1974, motion pictures made a startling comeback.

Daily Variety reports that America's film theaters did their best business since the postwar boom of 1946. Income is estimated to have reached as high as $1.675 billion, an 18 per cent jump over 1973.

Several reasons have been offered: the search for escape in troublous times, the need of neighborhood entertainment during the gas shortage, disenchantment with television.

Perhaps the soundest reason for the box-office upswing was the appearance of appealing attractions, starting off the year with "The Sting," "The Exorcist" and "Papillon" and ending with "The Towering Inferno," "Earthquake," "The Godfather, Part II," "Young Frankenstein," "Lenny," and

"The Man with the Golden Gun."

The latter films are carrying their big grosses into the new year. They will be joined during 1975 by a new crop of hopefuls. Among them: "The Great Waldo Pepper" — Robert Redford barnstorming early airplanes in another film with George Roy Hill, who directed "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" and "The Sting."

"Funny Lady" — Barbra Streisand as a more mature Fanny Brice with Omar Sharif back as first husband and James Caan as her second, Billy Rose.

"The French Connection II" — Gene Hackman back as Popeye Doyle chasing dope dealers in France.

"Barry Lyndon" — Ryan O'Neal and Marisa Berenson in a William Makepeace Thackeray yarn, Stanley Kubrick's first film since "A Clockwork Orange."

"At Long Last Love" — Peter Bogdanovich's attempt to capture the 1930s musical magic, with score by Cole Porter.

"Rollerball" — James Caan and John Houseman in Norman Jewison's look at a terrifying sport of the future.

"One of Our Dinosaurs Is Missing" — Disney spy spoofery in England with Helen Hayes and Peter Ustinov.

"Shampoo" — Life of a Hollywood hairdresser with Warren Beatty, Goldie Hawn and Julie Christie.

"Day of the Locust" — An acerbic view of Hollywood in the 1930s by John Schlesinger ("Midnight Cowboy," "Sunday Bloody Sunday").

"Jaws" — The hazards of offshore swimming, with Robert Shaw and Roy Scheider.

"Once Is Not Enough" — Kirk Douglas as the hero (?) of Jacqueline Susann's steamy novel.

Special interests big contributors

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Special interests spent more than $379,000 electing the 116 members of the Ohio legislature last fall.

Organized labor chipped in $205,000, more than half the total.

The figures come from candidates' expenditure reports filed with county elections boards and the secretary of state.

No price declines seen in offing

NEW YORK (AP) — While the rate of consumer price increases is declining, Americans might wait many years and probably forever before seeing important, general declines in prices themselves.

Consumers know this instinctively and professional administrators see it in the numbers. "Let us not fool ourselves," said Treasury Secretary William E. Simon in commenting on that subject.

"We are still going to have a built-in rate of inflation that is going to be unacceptable and this is going to take years ... to bring back down," Simon said.

There will be some decreases. Cattle prices are still falling, and that probably means some lower beef prices next month. Even houses in some sections might be found at lower prices than a few months ago.

But don't look for any general price declines. If you value your present standard of living, in fact, you should wish against that eventuality, because in all probability it would mean a deep depression.

The upward bias in prices derives from many sources, including the new almost universal desire of people to raise their material standards. That means more cars, television sets, prepared foods and indoor plumbing.

If there is a people anywhere in this world that hasn't expressed that desire it is only waiting to be discovered. Industrial nations consider the underdeveloped world as an important new market to sell their ideas and goods.

Governments promote industry as a way to improve the conditions of their people. So many are now in that level of development that for the first time ever we have suffered widespread shortages of raw materials.

No longer are just a few nations of Asia, North America and Europe competing for these raw materials, but a hundred nations on every continent are. With increased demand, prices automatically begin rising.

Higher prices are, to some extent, a policy of growing industrial societies, although indirectly. The pressure exerted by governments most often comes in its efforts to raise wages, which in turn often leads to higher prices.

As industrial society develops so also arises a raft of problems: housing, unemployment, the need for better schools, hospitals and other institutions.

As government services increase there is a tendency of governments to overrun their budgets, and that means a tendency toward inflation.

Bank assembly slated

Philip F. Searle, president and chief executive officer of BancOhio Corporation headquartered in Columbus, will address the 21st Assembly of Bank Directors being held January 30 thru February 3.

The assembly, which is endorsed by many banking organizations including the American Bankers Association, invites bank directors, advisory directors, prospective directors and senior bank officers to attend.

Searle will speak on "Management Report to Directors" on February 1 of the five-day assembly in Las Croabas, Puerto Rico. Searle is a member of the faculty of the 21st Assembly. Also scheduled on the program are James E. Smith, comptroller of the currency; Frank Wille, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board of Governors; and Charles Van Horn, regional administrator of banks, Second National Bank Region. Subjects discussed are determined by the current issues and trends in banking at the time the assembly is held. Two more assemblies for bank directors will be held in 1975.

Searle, who is active in the banking industry, was recently appointed chairman of the board of regents of the Stonier Graduate School of Banking at Rutgers University. In addition, he has completed faculty assignments at the National Trust School and the Ohio School of Banking.

The First National Bank, of Washington C.H., is an affiliate of BancOhio Corporation.

Utility bills worry PUCO

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two members of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio have asked state utilities to give some leeway to consumers strapped by sharply rising utility bills.

Commissioners Sally W. Boomfield and David C. Sweet called for "a cooperative effort by the PUCO, the utilities industry and consumers to aid citizens who are unable to pay their utility bills."

"We are aware of a growing number of Ohioans who are finding themselves unable to pay utility bills," said Commissioner Bloomfield.

"To respond to this situation, we are asking the utility companies to cooperate with the PUCO and with utility consumers who have a history of good credit to avoid shutoffs wherever possible," she said.

The commissioners said payment plans often can be worked out if the utility is advised of payment problems.

Convenience cards explained

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Do you tend to think of all those shiny plastic cards in your wallet as credit cards? If you do, you fail to recognize a distinction the convenience card people would like you to know about.

Pressured by rising prices, many consumers are using all their cards as automatic credit devices, which some of them are. But the convenience card people say theirs aren't, and they're fed up about the situation.

"If people need credit they should use a bank card," said R. Newell Lusby, chairman and president of Diners Club which, along with American Express and Carte Blanche, offers a convenience, or travel and entertainment, card.

"If they have credit, and need convenience, they should come to us," he continued, attempting to point out the difference between a bank card, which is a credit device, and his card, which he says isn't.

The bill for a convenience card is due in full when rendered, he explained. A bank card permits you to pay your bill over a period of time, charging you interest on the unpaid balance.

When a customer uses a convenience card as a credit card — that is, extends his payments over several months instead of paying in full when the bill is presented — he forces the card company to borrow from a bank.

This, of course, is expensive, and that's why the convenience card people are cracking down on deadbeats. "You don't create any additional financial capacity by using my card," said Lusby. "We're not a new credit facility."

He goes further: "Most people probably shouldn't buy things that are not clearly within their means to pay for."

Just what is the convenience. Mainly the assurance you can transact business without cash almost anywhere and, in addition, have monthly records for accounting and tax purposes.

The convenience cards derive their income from a combination of merchant discounts and membership fees. Bank cards have small merchant discounts but rely heavily on revolving credit charges.

The convenience cards discourage use of their cards as revolving credit vehicles because they don't charge interest. The bank cards encourage credit because they do. Some even offer lines of credit in the thousands of dollars.

For these reasons you might find your bank card people encouraging you to borrow, while Lusby is doing his best to discourage it. It helps banks, it hurts the convenience cards.

Chinese cancel U.S. wheat order

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mainland China has canceled orders for about two-thirds of the U.S. wheat scheduled for shipment through mid 1976, a Memphis based commodity trading firm says.

Cook Industries Inc. said Monday that contracts calling for the delivery of about 600,000 metric tons, or more than 22 million bushels, from February through September were canceled at China's request.

"One would have to assume they (China) had reasonably good crops and don't need the wheat, but they did not tell us that," said William E. Barksdale, a Cook vice president.

Agriculture Department figures suggest that most if not all of the cancellation involves wheat scheduled for shipment after the 1975 crops is harvested.

Richard E. Bell, deputy assistant secretary of agriculture, said that while a better-than-expected Chinese harvest was thought to be a factor in the cancellation, there also may have been other factors.

He cited a plant disease called TCK Smut, which particularly infects wheat grown in the Pacific Northwest.

"They don't want wheat that contains this disease which they claim is a disease they don't have, and it's been difficult to segregate that wheat," Bell said. He said the disease does not affect the edibility of the wheat, only the crop yield.

Another factor may have been the decrease in the price of wheat in the past few months as the result of a more plentiful supply, Bell said. The canceled sales also may be replaced by sales of new crop wheat from east of the Mississippi River by other companies, he said.

Meanwhile, the department predicted that the continued high level of wheat exports will leave the nation's bread grain reserve near a 27-year low by the time the new harvest is ready next summer.

The department's Outlook and Stabilization Board showed that 250,000,000 bushels of wheat from prior crops will be carried over into the new harvest year that will begin July 1.

That would put the July 1 wheat carryover only slightly above the 247 million bushels on hand last summer. The reserve was 439 million bushels in mid-1973 and 863 million a year before that.

3 Indiana hospitals may close

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The State Department of Mental Health has proposed a plan that calls for closing three of Indiana's nine state hospitals by 1981.

The plan, which was announced Monday but must be implemented through legislation, calls for closing Muscatatuck, Richmond and New Castle state hospitals.

New Castle would shut down prior to July 1977, Muscatatuck by July 1979 and Richmond by July 1981.

"We feel we can respond to the needs better if we take the money and funnel it to fewer hospitals," said Dr. William Murray, commissioner of mental health.

Murray said Gov. Otis R. Bowen, a physician who has expressed a desire to upgrade Indiana's mental health care system, is aware of the program but had not endorsed it yet.

Mishap checked

An accident involving cars driven by Harry E. Arnold Sr., 53, Miami Trace Road, and Kenneth Dowler, 58, of 1358 Dayton Ave., occurred on Jamison Road, two tenths miles north of the CCC-Highway-W intersection, at 12:15 p.m. Monday.

Fayette County Sheriff's deputies investigated the mishap and reported minor damage to the Arnold auto and moderate damage to the Dowler car.

Teen talent show set April 26

The board of directors of the Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club met Monday night at the Lafayette Inn during the regular weekly club meeting.

Bills of more than $500 were approved for payment and routine reports were read. The board also finalized the date for the Teen Talent Show, naming Saturday, April 26, for the event.

Ora Burdge, general chairman, announced that committee appointments would be made at the next regular meeting.

A lengthy discussion on membership development ensued, and plans were made for a concerted membership drive.

Ron Lott, chairman of the Key Club development committee, reported that 13 Miami Trace High School students had held an organizational meeting last week. He introduced the Key club officers who attended as guests of the Kiwanians.

Student officers present were Stuart Foster, president; Bob Spengler, vice president; Donny Pepper, secretary; and Jeff Overly, treasurer. Bill Sowash, faculty member at Miami Trace, will be the adult advisor.

The Kiwanis Club voted to donate $25 to the Washington C.H. American Field Service chapter.

Prior to the meeting, Miss Karen Shook, music teacher at Miami Trace, entertained the group by singing several selections. She accompanied herself on the guitar, and the club

Police probing check, shoplifting incidents

Washington C.H. police investigated three fraudulent checks passed at Buckeye Mart and an incident of shoplifting there and made two arrests. The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported three larcenies and a runaway area girl.

Laura J. Hoppes, 31, of Greenfield, was arrested by police at 8:30 p.m. Monday and charged with check defraud for passing a bad check on Dec. 17, 1974 amounting to $5.18, at Buckeye Mart, 100 Washington Square Plaza. She is presently incarcerated in the Fayette County jail in lieu of $1,000 bond.

A 15-year-old Washington C.H. girl was arrested by police at 4:20 p.m. Monday and charged with petty theft, for allegedly trying to conceal three members joined in on a number of times.

A four-year perfect attendance pin was awarded to Duane French by Dick Maddux.

pairs of pantyhose, valued at $3.27, in a paper bag and leave the store without paying for them. The girl has been released to her parents.

Police also reported three additional bad checks passed at the store. They are presently investigating one check passed on Dec. 21, 1974 for $15.88 and two bad checks passed on Dec. 23, 1974 for $46.58 and $22.15.

Two citizen's band antennas were so carefully removed from Ed Whittington's car, while it was parked at Club 22, CCC-Highway-W, between 9 p.m. and 10 p.m. Saturday, he was convinced it had been a prank.

When he returned to his Camp Grove Road residence, he contacted everyone he could in an attempt to get the antennas valued at $56, back. He found it was no prank, according to Fayette County Sheriff's deputies who are now assisting him in his search.

Two gasoline thefts were reported by sheriff's deputies. Ten gallons were stolen from a truck belonging to the Greenline Equipment Co., U.S. 22-E, Jan. 6, around 10 p.m. and five gallons were siphoned from a car owned by Harvey T. Frisbie sometime around 3:10 a.m. Tuesday, while the auto was parked at his Mark Road residence.

Sheriff's deputies are searching for Terri Ooten, 15, Harrison Road.

The girl was last seen at 4:30 p.m. Saturday, with Robin Sutton, Tom Furguson, 19, and another unnamed young man supposedly 21-years-of-age.

Terri is 5 feet 5 inches in height and 115 pounds in weight; has blond hair and a birthmark on her cheek. She was wearing blue jeans and a Miami Trace jacket.

Anyone having information as the girl's whereabouts should contact the sheriff immediately.

Blood run made

Fayette County Sheriff's Deputy R.A. Russell drove to Columbus at 7:09 p.m. Monday, to pick up blood needed for Allan Mossbarger, of 232 Kathryn Court, Mossbarger is a patient at Fayette Memorial Hospital.

Deputy Russell met with Franklin County Sheriff's officials at the intersection of I-71 and CCC Highway-E to receive the blood.

IRA bombs injure 26

LONDON (AP) — Prospects for a new cease-fire by the Irish Republican Army dimmed today after six bombs exploded in London and Manchester, injuring 26 persons.

"We seem to have a blitz on our hands," a spokesman for Scotland Yard said. "We are expecting more."

The bombing Monday was the first large-scale attack in England since the IRA's Provisional wing ended a Christmas cease-fire on Jan. 16. The Provos' army council has been reported discussing a new truce at a meeting in Dublin. But violence resumed in Northern Ireland nine days ago, and five more persons have been killed there.

The bombing Monday began with an explosion during the afternoon in the basement hardware section of a Manchester department store. A man with an Irish accent telephoned a warning 17 minutes before, but the police were unable to clear the store in time. Nineteen persons were injured.

Five explosions followed in London, 200 miles to the south. The first wrecked Gieves, tailor and outfitter to British military men for generations. A warning was given, but a caretaker was injured.

After another warning, there were explosions but no injuries at a gasworks and a chemical plant in North London. Then came explosions without warning at a jewelry store in Kensington High Street and a fashion boutique in Victoria Street, almost opposite Scotland Yard. Six persons were injured.

During the evening, more telephoned warnings sent the Yard's bomb squad to a restaurant in a shopping district in Hampstead, north London, and a shoe store in Putney, in southwest London.

Outside the restaurant they found a bomb set to go off at 7:30 p.m., when the street was crowded with shoppers, but the clock had stopped at 7:15. At the shoe store they found 24 six-inch sticks of gelignite with a timing device. They defused the apparatus a few minutes before it was set to go off.

Bomb squad chief Robert Huntley said the explosions in London were "the work of one gang and typical of the IRA."

Police continue burglary probe

Washington C.H. police officers reported Tuesday an investigation was continuing in the Sunday night burglary of the new Super X drug store on Clinton Avenue.

According to Police Chief Rodman Scott and Police Specialist Larry Walker, who are conducting the investigation, no positive leads have been made in the burglary in which an undetermined amount of cash and merchandise were taken. Agents from the Bureau of Criminal Investigation in London arrived Monday afternoon to assist in the probe.

David McMillen, manager of the local store which had just conducted its opening Sunday, said he had not yet determined exactly all the items and cash that were taken during the break-in.

Police officers said the burglars apparently entered the store through the roof in the rear stock room where plumbers had been working to install a new gas system in the building.

McMillen reported a small amount of cash and several expensive Polaroid cameras and watches were found missing when employees arrived for their second day of work Monday morning.

Filmdom's D.W. Griffith recalled

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — It was the 100th anniversary recently of the birth of D. W. Griffith, the moody genius whose silent films catapulted movies from a fad into an art.

In commemoration, the Museum of Modern Art in New York City has begun a mammoth retrospective look at Griffith. The director's early films are being shown through Feb. 23. His features from 1914 to 1931 will start May 15.

The Postal Service has issued a D. W. Griffith commemorative stamp for this year.

But in Hollywood, there were no events planned around the anniversary Jan. 23. To devotees of the Griffith art, that seemed natural.

They argue that the great director was allowed to languish in bitter obscurity during the last 15 years of his life.

Louis B. Mayer and other film moguls came to the Griffith funeral at the Hollywood Masonic Temple July 28, 1948.

Donald Crisp, who had played U. S. Grant in "Birth of a Nation," delivered a eulogy, remarking pointedly: "I cannot help feeling that there always should have been a place for him and his talent in the motion picture field. 'It is hard to believe that the industry could not have found a place for his great gift.'"

Griffith had proved an embarrassment to the film establishment, not only because of its own neglect of him.

With his first and greatest masterpiece, "Birth of a Nation," he created controversy that has continued from 1915 to the present day.

As Lewis Jacobs comments in "The Rise of the American Film," "Birth of a Nation" was "a passionate and persuasive avowal of the inferiority of the Negro ... At one point in the picture a title bluntly editorialized that the South must be made 'safe' for the whites."

The film's first release stirred race riots in Boston and other "abolitionist" cities and brought denunciations from liberals for its "perversion of white ideals."

Showings of "Birth of a Nation" have attracted picketings in recent years. David Wark Griffith came by his prejudices naturally. He was born Jan. 23, 1875, in Oldham County, Ky., the son of a Confederate colonel whose exploits and loud voice gave him the nickname of "Thunder Jake."

Steeped in the social patterns and Victorian manners of the Old South, Griffith left the family home to travel the country as an actor, working on sailing ships, building jobs and in lumber mills between stage assignments. His wide experiences and his sense of drama provided the rich background when he began directing short films for the Biograph Co. in 1908.

Man guilty in gun case

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — An Ottawa County weapons designer has been found guilty of illegal possession of a prototype submachine gun.

The ruling was returned against Francis Warin of Long Beach by U.S. District Judge Don J. Young in a written opinion after a nonjury trial.

Young held that Warin had a valid argument that as a citizen and technical member of the state's militia he had a right to possess the weapon. But, the judge added, it still must be registered in accordance with federal law.

Warin, an employee of Ares Inc., a weapons manufacturer in Port Clinton, testified during the October trial that he built the gun with the intent of offering it for military use.

Warin was indicted on the possession charge after surrendering the weapon to federal agents and demanding that he be prosecuted to test the validity of the weapons registration requirement. Warin said the registration law infringed on his right to bear arms under the Second Amendment of the U.S. Constitution.

The first harness races were held in England in 1829.

Versatile Latin American to appear here

It is all too seldom in the world of music that an artist has demonstrated virtuosity in both the realm of classical repertory and the area of popular or semi-classical performance. Such a phenomenon, however, is the work of Hector Olivera, a young Latin American organist. Those fortunate enough to have heard him are awed by his prodigious classical technique and equally impressed by his popular styling. Olivera's versatility will be demonstrated in his appearance at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 7 in Grace United Methodist Church in concert sponsored by the Washington C.H. Organ Club.

HECTOR OLIVERA

ternational assembly of members including Donald C. Riber, of Washington C.H., who immediately invited him to give a concert at the Ohio Theater in Columbus.

The response at Olivera's 1974 concert in Columbus was immediate and elicited the following remarks as a review in Columbus newspapers:

"For every note, his choice of timbre was so perfectly controlled that it revealed artistic discipline and preparation of the highest order. His technique is precise, effortless, superbly articulated. You would have to see him play "In The Mood," feet pounding out the tune on the pedals, hands flying from manual to manual, alternating chords on each of the four manuals, to believe his technical power. And his arrangements are delightfully fresh and expertly conceived. Can you imagine listening to a medley from "The Sound of Music" without perishing of boredom? Hard to believe, but Olivera had us hanging on the edges of our seats as if we had never heard those tunes before."

SOME OF the more important credits earned by the young Latin American include 300 concerts in Argentina and Brazil; first prize in the National Competition on Improvisation sponsored by the American Guild of Organists; a Carnegie Hall concert that attracted by far the largest audience ever to attend an organ recital in its history and ended with a two-minute standing ovation; a performance for the Pope during his visit to the Vatican Pavilion at the World's Fair; concerts at such renowned churches as St. Thomas and the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York and many television appearances in this country and abroad. He has performed with the Pittsburgh and Cleveland symphony orchestras and in Chicago, Rochester, Radio City Music Hall. At a recent performance, Dr. William Barnes, world renowned organ authority, remarked to the audience, "Hector Olivera is not just another talented organist, but a great musician with a magic touch . . . one of the greatest I have ever heard!"

One of the many feats that this internationally acclaimed South American never ceases to amaze enthusiasts with is his unbelievable rendition of "The Flight of the Bumble Bee" played on the pedalboard.

The concert at Grace United Methodist Church will be open to the public and no admission will be charged. A free will offering will be taken after the performance to help defray the expense.

Traffic Court

Two persons were fined in Municipal Court Monday on traffic charges filed by Washington C.H. police officers. All defendants of traffic charges by the Ohio Highway Patrol forfeited bonds for failure to appear in court before acting Judge Omar Schwart.

Ralph E. Satterfield, 24, Mt. Sterling, pleaded guilty to leaving the scene of an accident and was fined $100 with his driver's license suspended for 30 days.

Judge Schwart also fined Satterfield $25 after he pleaded no contest to a second charge of speeding.

Howard A. Temple, 33, of 708 Second St., was fined $25 after pleading no contest to a charge of reckless operation.

High court lets stand note ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has refused to review a circuit court decision which ruled there was no fraud in the connection with the sale of $18 million in promissory notes to the State of Ohio.

The court Monday let stand a decision of the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati, which had dissolved injunctions against two officers of King Resources Co., which issued the notes.

U.S. District Judge Carl B. Rubin of Dayton issued an order on Dec. 29, 1972, enjoining William V. Coffey, financial vice president of King Resources, and John M. King, its board chairman, from violating federal securities laws.

The appellate court, however, concluded that no violations of antifraud provisions had occurred and dissolved the injunctions.

The circuit court ordered the case against King dismissed and ordered further proceedings to determine whether there was misrepresentation by Coffey.

King Resources sold the notes to the state after obtaining a "prime" rating from the National Credit Office. Shortly after the sale, King Resources collapsed financially.

Judge Rubin held that the use of the term "prime" in connection with sale of the notes, regardless of how the rating was obtained, was fraudulent because it would tend to mislead purchasers.

Russian medical scientists linked sunspots and flu epidemics, while a Soviet agronomist detected a relationship between the spots and poor crops, according to the National Geographic Society.

Bill pushed for disaster assistance

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — After only the first hearing, the Senate Finance Committee recommended passage Monday night of a bill that could help disaster-stricken areas of Ohio rebuild their schools.

Sen. Max H. Dennis, R-10 Wilmington, sponsored the bill mostly for the benefit of the Xenia City School District, which needs about $1.4 million to rebuild its junior high school.

The measure, which now goes to the Rules Committee to await assignment for a floor vote, changes existing law to allow school districts, as well as local government units, to apply for state disaster funds.

Last year, the legislature appropriated $5 million in disaster funds to help the Greene County community and other parts of Ohio that were devastated by April tornadoes. The City of Xenia has received $2.5 million, but the same amount remains unspent in the hands of the state Controlling Board.

Dennis explained that the legislation doesn't appropriate the funds for the Xenia school district, but simply makes the district eligible to apply to the controlling board for them. Other schools in regions that were classified as disaster areas also are eligible, he said.

The only applicants for the funds, with one exception, have come from Xenia city officials and Greene County commissioners. Dennis said the City of Elwood in Hamilton County, has asked $50,000 for tornado damage repair.

SCOL leader tops Class AA standings

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Barborton and Mansfield St. Peter's have a firm grasp on the Class AAA and A leads, but the Class AA race is close among at least four contenders in The Associated Press Ohio high school basketball poll.

Barborton's 13-0 Magics own a 277-256 edge on No. 2 Middletown (12-0) among the large schools this week.

St. Peter's (13-2), playing one of the state's toughest Class A schedules, carries a 238-205 advantage on runner-up Canal Winchester (13-0) in the small school ratings.

In Class AA, Circleville (13-0) is the new pacesetter after a wave of upsets last weekend. Wellsville, Delphos St. John's and Columbus Mohawk, the top rated trio, all fell. That opened the path to the top for Circleville, fourth last week.

Even so, the spread is only 26 points among the first four teams in the middle division. Circleville has 197, Wellsville 191, Delphos St. John's 183 and fourth-place Waverly 171.

Warsaw River View was fifth in Class AA and then came Mohawk, Rossford, Brooklyn, Springfield Shawnee and Wheelersburg.

The same Top Ten prevails again in Class AAA with Canton McKinley third, Kettering Alter fourth, Cincinnati Hughes fifth, Toledo Scott sixth, Newark seventh, Dayton Roosevelt eighth, Alliance ninth and Cincinnati Elder No. 10.

One newcomer, McGuffey Upper Scioto Valley, appeared in the Class A Top Ten, taking over the No. 10 spot. The school, with 16 straight victories, has the best record in the state this season.

Norwalk St. Paul, the Class A runner-up last week, lost its first game of the season 69-65 to Monroeville and dropped to sixth in the voting by a statewide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Canal Winchester took over the No. 2 spot with Lordstown (13-0) advancing two rungs to third place. Minster (14-0) was fourth and Sebring (12-1) fifth.

Pettisville leaped three positions to seventh, Windham was eighth, Anna ninth and Upper Scioto Valley No. 10 to round out the Class A Top Ten.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Here's how a statewide panel of sports writers and broadcasters rates Ohio high school basketball teams this week for The Associated Press (10 points for first to 1 point for 10th):

Bartkowski looms as top draft pick

NEW YORK (AP) — It's a great year for linemen and linebackers, but All-American quarterback Steve Bartkowski was expected to be the No. 1 selection today when the National Football League opened its annual two-day draft of college stars.

"I think Atlanta and the South are the places to play football," Bartkowski said Monday shortly before he left the University of California and flew to Atlanta and the South, where he was scheduled for an early morning news conference today.

"They take the game seriously and the fans have enthusiasm, as I learned from trips to Gainesville, Fla., and Mobile, Ala. I look forward to playing with the Falcons."

And the Falcons look forward to having the strong-armed, 6-foot-4, 212-pound drop-back passer who broke Craig Morton's single-season Cal passing record by throwing for 2,580 yards, including 12 touchdowns.

"He's the best to come along since Jim Plunkett," says Tom Braatz, Atlanta's player personnel director.

If Bartkowski is the No. 1 pick, he will be the first quarterback to achieve the honor since the New England Patriots tabbed Stanford's Plunkett in 1971. The last three No. 1 picks were defensive linemen — Notre Dame's Walt Patulski by Buffalo in 1972, Tampa's John Matuszak by Houston in 1973 and Tennessee State's Ed "Too Tall" Jones by Dallas last year.

Bartkowski is rated the best of a slim quarterback crop. But there's no shortage of linemen and linebackers.

Pete Brown, director of scouting for the Cincinnati Bengals, is especially high on the linebacking prospects.

"It's the top year for linebackers since I've been in the business," he says, mentioning 230-pound Robert

Brazile of Jackson, Miss., State as "the finest I've seen in three years."

Other outstanding linebackers available include Rod Shoate of Oklahoma, Bob Breunig of Arizona State, Ken Bernich of Auburn, Richard Wood of Southern California and Fred Dean of Louisiana Tech.

Lion girls down MT

The Washington Senior High School girls basketball teams handed Miami Trace a double defeat Monday night taking the varsity game 40-29, and the reserve tilt 29-18.

The varsity win brought the Lions record to 2-0 while the reserves evened their record at 1-1. The Miami Trace varsity is also 1-1.

The varsity contest was close through the first two quarters with Washington owning a four-point lead at the half. The Lions erupted in the third quarter and held a 10 point edge at the end of the stanza.

The reserve game was more lopsided. The younger Lions maintained a six-point lead most of the first half and gradually widened the gap after the intermission.

Indiana widens cage leadership

By The Associated Press
Indiana, the only major unbeaten team in the nation, was a unanimous choice for No. 1 and defending national champion North Carolina State climbed three notches to No. 2 in this week's Associated Press major college basketball poll.

Indiana, which raised its season record to 19-0 by beating Illinois 73-5 Monday night, was picked first by all 44 sports writers and broadcasters participating in the poll, receiving the maximum 880 points. The balloting was based on games played through Saturday, at which point Indiana was 18-0.

N.C. State, which last year broke UCLA's stranglehold on the NCAA championship, routed Wake Forest 106-80 Saturday to raise its season record to 12-2. That earned the Wolfpack, ranked fifth last week, 723 points and the runnerup spot in this week's poll, announced Monday.

Louisville, knocked from the unbeaten ranks by Bradley Saturday night, dropped one notch to No. 3 with 657 points. UCLA, despite losing at Notre Dame Saturday, retained the No. 4 spot with 582 points.

Kentucky, 11th last week, vaulted all the way up to the fifth position on the strength of Southeastern Conference victories over Alabama and Florida. The Wildcats, 13-2, received 495 points and barely edged out Southern California, also 13-2 and idle last week, which drew 487 points. La Salle, 16-1, jumped from ninth to seventh after beating Duquesne and West Chester.

Maryland, 13-3, took a big tumble, falling all the way from third to eighth after being beaten by Clemson and North Carolina. Alabama won two of three games to raise its mark to 13-2 but slipped from sixth to ninth because of the loss to Kentucky. North Carolina, 14th last week, completed the top ten on the strength of its victories over Virginia and Maryland, which boosted its record to 10-4.

Oregon dropped from ninth to 11th, followed by Arizona State, Marquette, Auburn, Arizona, Notre Dame, Stanford, Tennessee, South Carolina and Kansas.

Big Ten race tight for second

The Big Ten basketball race has been reduced to two factions — keeping Indiana's score down and a race for second place.

Illinois managed to keep Indiana's score down Monday night before yielding by a 73-57 count and the race for second place is something to behold.

Four teams are tied for second place with 5-3 records, and two others — Michigan State and Iowa — have 4-4 records. Locked in second place are Michigan, Minnesota, Purdue and Ohio State.

Indiana, although sluggish, rammed past Illinois to up its Big Ten record to 8-0 and its season mark to 19-0. The Hoosiers now have a 22-game winning streak — longest in the nation.

Michigan had to go into overtime for a 75-73 triumph over Wisconsin, Ohio State edged Purdue 93-87 and Michigan State rallied for a 54-50 triumph over Northwestern.

"We played about as well as we can in the first half," said Illinois Coach Gene Bartow. "That's the way we wanted to play on offense. Indiana's defense is so quick that it makes many offensive moves difficult."

Indiana Coach Bobby Knight said "For a good portion of the second half, we kept them under 20 points. That was the best aspect of our play — our second half defense."

Scott May led Indiana with 19 points and Quinn Buckner, who now has three good scoring games in a row, added 17.

"It looked like we had it going and all of a sudden Quinn Buckner's got it," said Bartow. "He kills you with his quickness."

The big surprise in the Big Ten was Michigan's difficulty against winless Wisconsin. The Wolverines had to go into overtime and a pair of free throws by Wayman Britt with no time left on the clock provided Michigan with its victory.

Britt apparently had scored the winning basket on a tap-in during regulation play but the officials disallowed it. Wisconsin went ahead 73-71 in overtime before Joe Johnson stole the ball and scored for the Wolverines to tie the score and set up Britt's heroics.

Cleveland Browns to miss draft pick

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland's poor performance during the 1974 football season pushed them up the ladder in the National Football League draft, but not high enough to get the man they would like to have.

The draft was to begin this morning and the Browns are No. 5 on the list in the first round.

Bob Nussbaumer, director of player personnel for the Browns, said the club would like to have defensive end Randy White from Maryland.

"I don't think our fifth spot in the first round will be good enough to get him," Nussbaumer said.

Whalers beat Crusaders

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — New England Whalers' Coach Ron Ryan decided to shake things up and as a result the Whalers broke a four-game losing streak in posting a 2-0 victory over the Cleveland Crusaders in the only scheduled World Hockey Association game Monday night.

Ryan, who had seen his team score only eight times in the last five games, made several personnel and line changes before the game. As a result, the Whalers played their best game in two weeks to extend their WHA East Division lead over Cleveland to 12 points.

Jazz Coach Bill van Breda Kolff mourned the loss but praised his team's performance.

"I hope we can keep playing this way, because when we have a bad stretch we are still able to come from behind," Van Breda Kolff said.

The Jazz fell behind twice by 11 points, but battled back each time, tying it at 115-115 until McGlocklin sank his game saver.

The game was the only one in the NBA and no games were scheduled in the American Basketball Association.

Milwaukee's Kareem AbdulJabbar poured in 41 points to take scoring honors for the night.

CIA's Richard Ober proves mysterious

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard Ober stands at the center of the controversy concerning domestic spying by the CIA, but in true spy fashion he clings to his anonymity.

The CIA refuses to acknowledge even that Ober is an agency employee, but sources have confirmed that from 1969 to 1974 he headed a special counterintelligence unit which CIA Director William E. Colby admits kept files on 10,000 American citizens.

Now a CIA employee on the staff of the National Security Council, Ober appeared Monday before the Rockefeller commission investigating the CIA. He declined comment to reporters, even refusing to give his age, but Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller called Ober a key witness.

Tall, gray-haired and in his 50s, Ober is described by several former officials as "one of the finest intelligence officers I have ever known."

Before his assignment to the counterintelligence unit, Ober "always handled the most delicate Soviet cases," according to one source. During the 1950s, he reportedly was part of a CIA operation which tapped Russian communications by tunneling from the Allied sector of Berlin into the center of an East German telephone exchange.

Sources say that in 1969 he was transferred to counterintelligence to head the unit which Colby has said was formed in response to presidential concern that American radical groups were receiving assistance from abroad.

In an effort to uncover the foreign influence behind disturbances at home, the counterintelligence unit "inserted or recruited" a dozen individuals into U.S. dissident circles, Colby has said.

During this period, Ober's immediate superior at the agency was counterintelligence chief James J. Angleton, who was forced to resign along with three top aides following published reports of domestic spying.

Published reports have indicated that Ober was transferred to the National Security Council shortly after Colby learned of the counterintelligence unit's domestic surveillance activities. However, several sources have said that Ober's transfer was no indication he had fallen into disfavor with Colby.

A spokesman for the National Security Council confirms that Ober is a CIA employee and that he joined the National Security Council staff in March 1974 as director of intelligence but refuses to supply any further details. "He's in pretty much of a no-comment posture right now," the spokesman explained.

Skies remained cloudy and temperatures rather mild Monday night and this morning. A few light sprinkles fell in the southern counties this morning. Early morning readings were generally in the 20s and 30s, according to the National Weather Service.

A weak front well south of Ohio continued to blanket the entire state with cloudiness which was to persist throughout today. A few light sprinkles were forecast to fall in the southern part of the state while some rain or snow was to be seen in the northern counties.

Afternoon readings were to change little from Monday and climb into the 30s and 40s with a few lower 50s in the Ohio Valley.

Another winter storm moving out of the west and into the upper Mississippi Valley by Wednesday morning will spread rain into Ohio late tonight and early Wednesday. Lows will drop into the 30s and 40s. Rain will persist Wednesday and temperatures will rise again into the 40s and 50s.

Winter will return on Thursday as night time temperatures drop into the teens and the 20s, readings more normal for this time of the year.

A chance of rain Thursday and a chance of snow flurries northeast Friday and Saturday. Turning colder. Highs Thursday in the 40s and lows in the 20s. Highs Saturday in the 20s and 30s. Lows in the teens and low 20s.

Air crash probe shows confusion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Minutes before a jetliner crashed into a Virginia mountain last Dec. 1 killing 92 persons, the captain wondered aloud whether he was flying too low.

4 more murders probed

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — Police are continuing to investigate reports from a man facing four murder charges that he knows where at least four other bodies are buried.

Ada County Sheriff Eldon Palmer has clamped a tight news blackout on the investigation concerning Thomas Eugene Creech, 24. Both other police sources say they are investigating reports of slayings in Nevada, Ohio and Washington. Creech is charged with two murders in Idaho and two in Oregon. Court proceedings against him have been delayed pending completion of psychiatric evaluations.

Charged with Creech in the shooting deaths of two itinerants in November is Carol Spaulding, 18, Lewiston, Idaho. The woman, who prison authorities say is about four months pregnant, was jailed with Creech and was charged with murder as soon as she turned 18 in December.

The Spaulding woman will be arraigned in district court at Cascade, Idaho, Feb. 5. That's near where the two Idaho victims were found Nov. 5. Creech tentatively is scheduled to go on trial April 20.

Police sources say they are checking reports of a body in a Southwestern Nevada mine shaft; an unsolved slaying in Ohio and two bodies reportedly in a lake in the Seattle area.

The transcript of the cockpit voice recorder released Monday at a hearing on the cause of the crash shows that the captain made the comment as the Trans World Airlines jetliner descended to 1,800 feet.

"You know, according to this dumb sheet, it says 3,400 to Round Hill is our minimum altitude," said the pilot, Richard I. Brock.

Brock then added, "When he (the air traffic controller) clears you, that means you can go to your initial approach altitude."

Less than two minutes later the plane hit the top of a 1,754-foot mountain while trying to land at Dulles International Airport near Washington.

A central question at the National Transportation Safety Board hearings, which opened Monday, is whether the pilot made an erroneous assumption that he could descend to 1,800 feet as soon as he received final approach clearance.

An American Airlines pilot who flew into Dulles Dec. 1 over the same route testified, "We knew 1,800 was not the safe altitude to descend to."

The pilot, Jan Minkler, said he asked his flight engineer to check with ground controllers to determine a safe altitude until he reached Round Hill and was told 4,000 feet.

However, Minkler and Eastern Airlines pilot V.J. Beaudraut, who also landed a plane at Dulles on the morning of Dec. 1, said they had talked to other pilots who said they would have descended to 1,800 feet without checking.

Another question to be examined is whether air traffic controller Merle W. Dameron gave the TWA cockpit crew premature approval for descent into the final approach pattern.

The voice recorder also shows that the plane apparently encountered a severe downdraft just before the crash.

"Boy, it was... wanted to go right down through there, man," the co-pilot said. "Must have had a... of a downdraft."

The crash occurred 22 seconds later.

Money Matters

By Gary Dunn

There Are More Than Just Money Resources

In addition to the "money" or "cash" assets which an examination of your financial situation would reveal, there are certain "personal" resources that are definite assets.

Your education, skills, talents, experience, and your personal character traits - dependability, responsibility, loyalty, the ability to meet people, deal and work with others in a spirit of cooperation and harmony - all of these have special value.

What is more, YOU can continually increase the value of these personal assets - such as adding to your educational experience with night courses, adult education classes, etc.

There are so many things which you can do to make yourself worth more - and they do NOT need to cost money!

Best wishes to Ed Fisher on his appointment to the City Council.

Congratulations and good luck to Mrs. Mae Graham, Mrs. Gayle Kelly, John Borrowman, David Six, and Dan Wolford on being appointed to the Regional Manpower Service Council.

There are so many things which we at our Bank, your Friendly First National Bank of Washington Court House can do to help you help yourself - and those little helps are always provided without cost or obligation - the advice and guidance that accumulate from long years of experience and careful training. Don't hesitate to involve us in your "self-improvement" plans!

Rain, snow cover wide area of U.S.

By The Associated Press

Rain dampened a wide area from Texas to Illinois today and snow was scattered from California to Wyoming as a storm that had been dawdling in the Southwest began to move.

Drifting snow was expected to produce hazardous driving conditions in much of the central and southern Rockies during the day. Travel advisories also were posted in southeast Wyoming and northeast Colorado.

Rain and snowfall generally were light during the predawn hours. The rain extended from westcentral Texas through Kansas and Arkansas into southern Illinois. Snow was scattered from the mountains of Southern California through southwest Utah into central Wyoming.

Light snow also sifted into western Montana and northern Michigan, and rain and snow chilled western Washington.

Dense fog again rolled over much of the western and central Gulf Coast and travel advisories were up in many areas.

Fair skies were scarce, confined mainly to the southeastern quarter of the nation and parts of the Southwest.

Unseasonably mild weather dominated much of the nation outside the northern Rockies and Plains. Overnight temperatures in the 30s were common in many northern sections, and the 40s, 50s and some 60s dominated the Southeast.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 32 at Butte, Mont., to 75 at Key West, Fla.

Opening lead - three of clubs.

There is of course no advantage to playing a hand in five hearts or five spades, as opposed to four hearts or four spades.

But occasionally, as in this case, an ambitious declarer — in trying to get to a slam — winds up in the uncomfortable five level and finds himself in jeopardy as a result.

That is exactly what happened here when South got to five hearts. Had North held the jack of hearts instead of the five, the slam would have been laydown, but, as the situation actually was, South had to play exceedingly well to manage even eleven tricks.

He won the club lead with the king and played a low trump to the queen, which held. Had declarer continued with another trump at this stage, he would have lost three trump tricks and gone down one.

But, warned by East's play of the nine on the queen that North might have all three remaining trumps, South embarked on a course of play designed to overcome that possibility.

He led the ace of clubs, ruffed a club, and cashed the Q-K-A of spades, discarding a diamond from his hand. Declarer next cashed the A-K of diamonds and ruffed a diamond, as a result of which his remaining three cards were the K-10-7 of trumps.

When he now led the king of hearts, West took the ace and found that his three natural trump tricks — the A-J-8 — had suddenly dwindled to two. So South made five hearts, which was a much more exciting contract to make than four hearts, and he experienced the joy that comes from living dangerously.

Economic plan being dissected

by JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — A more independent Congress that has some serious questions about the Ford administration energy-economic program is likely to produce some hot debates over the next few weeks.

Helping to generate the heat is the President's contention that his program is a package of inter-related measures that cannot be broken down and reconstructed without suffering critically and perhaps fatally.

But economists already are picking apart the ingredients. Governors of states in the Northeast contend the energy tax is discriminatory. Labor insists the tax rebates be more to the advantage of the poor. Bankers are still trying to make up their minds. They would like to believe that deficits of $35 billion and in excess of $40 billion in successive years won't force up interest rates, but are arguing among themselves.

Insurance men, who must watch interest rates with a magnifying glass and measure every fractional change, are beginning to lose faith in the prospect for lower rates.

Kenneth Wright, chief economist of the American Life Insurance Association, told members a few days ago:

"The normal expectation in a period of deepening recession, reduced inflation rates, and prospective easing of monetary policy would be or a substantial downturn in both long and short-term interest rates.

"In the year ahead, however, a record amount of long-term corporate financing is in prospect and the need for Treasury financing of federal deficits is expected to reach a postwar high.

"Primarily as a result of these overriding influences, both short-term and long-term interest rates are expected to move down by relatively small amounts in the first half of the year, with a likelihood of renewed upward pressure in the latter part of 1975."

Much the same view is being taken by economists regarding inflation. The standard forecast originally called for a sharp drop in inflation and interest rates. The outlook now is for a mild decrease and, tentatively, another move upward.

Perhaps the biggest question about the Ford program is how a tax-induced higher price for energy can help the economy, or even reduce dependence on foreign sources of supply without hurting the United States.

Homeowners in the Northeast have already imposed restraints on themselves, lowering their thermostats because the price of fuel oil has doubled in two years. Will higher prices mean further cuts or will they decide they have no choice but to use as much as before.

The President's program is complex, but it is a total package, like a watch, from which no part can be removed. There is widespread feeling in financial circles that the claim doesn't stand up.

Albert Cox, Jr., an economic adviser in the Nixon administration, comments: "Taken as a total package, President Ford's economic proposals are not constructive."

You know the one about the old farmer who went to the city and saw an elevator for the first time. He watched an elderly lady step into it and the doors closed. He was still watching a few moments later when the car returned to that floor, the doors opened and a beautiful young girl stepped out. "It's magic," he cried, and headed for home to get his wife and put her into the elevator.

Back a few hundred years ago some guy went to Florida hunting the Fountain of Youth. Every year millions are spent in this same search. Let's face it, there ain't no magic answer to youth. Like Master Charge, "if you got it, you got it," and while you still have it you better get it on film at McCoy's or Jennings, or better yet get yourself a camera and get lots of pix before father time works your face over any more.

There are, in the United States today, a growing number of scientifically minded folks who see nutrition as an important factor in this area of remaining young. Adelle Davis, a biochemist and one of the country's best-known nutritionists, has four books on the subject. In our book department we have sold lots of all four of the Davis books; LET'S EAT IT RIGHT being perhaps the most popular of the four. We have many more books on nutrition, many in the area of B-17 and B-15. There is much evidence that cancer is a deficiency disease brought on by lack of Vitamin B-17 in the modern diet. In our book department we have dozens of books that explore this concept of cancer, and new ones are coming in all the time. It seems plain stupid, in view of rising medical costs, not to make every effort to maintain good health through proper diet. This is where these nutrition books come in.

Classes begin at CKFN the first week in February. First off we move into the area of shooting vacation pix and proper use of equipment in the field. Later classes will involve use of flash and other indoor techniques. Interested? Check in for the full story.

Washing Out Sinuses

I've had my sinuses washed out. I must admit I feel better. Is it true that once they are washed out they must always be washed out?

Mr. D. R. E., Ind.

It is a misconception that once sinuses are washed out they must always be washed out.

The reason that this false belief originated is that some cases of sinusitis (infections of the sinuses) are chronic and repetitive. Therefore, the same type of treatment must be repeated.

The sinuses, especially the antra on each side of the nose, when infected, can accumulate a large amount of pus. It is a rule of medicine and surgery that when pus is present it must be evacuated.

Emptying the sinus cavity by irrigation is no different than emptying an abscess anywhere in the body.

Sometimes, with antibiotics, an abscess may be absorbed. This is relatively uncommon. The irrigation of the sinus itself does not mean that the procedure must again be repeated unless infection persists or returns.

What is the difference between "identical" twins and "fraternal" twins?

Miss S. F., Ore.

Dear Miss F.: Identical twins are formed from a single egg (ovum). Such twins are always of the same sex, and are truly identical in appearance.

Fraternal twins develop from two different eggs, or ova. Such twins may resemble each other, but with no greater exactness than other brothers and sisters. They may or may not be of the same sex.

It is always interesting how closely the intellectual levels of identical twins run parallel with each other.

How soon should a child have a "tongue-tied" operation done?

Mrs. J. J. N., Nev.

Dear Mrs. N.: It should be done as early as possible, long before speech patterns are distorted.

The thin band of tissue that binds the tongue to the floor of the mouth can easily be cut to relieve the restriction of the movement of the tongue.

Miss Tway instructor

City school teachers
eye workshop series

The Washington C.H. School District is sponsoring two workshops for all elementary teachers Thursday, Jan. 30 and Thursday, Feb. 6 in the Washington C.H. Middle School cafeteria.

Classes will be dismissed early for students in kindergarten through the fifth grade to permit the teachers to attend. All other classes will be dismissed at regular times.

"The workshops are being presented to develop an awareness of the opportunities involved in unifying the language arts program, reading, writing, spelling and grammar," said Lewis Parrett, elementary coordinator for Washington C.H. city schools. "The workshops also expect to pinpoint the problems in such a move. If interest justifies, these sessions will be followed with a college course for credit on this topic," he said.

EILEEN TWAY

Her recent professional experiences and activities include being a consultant in children's literature and creative writing both at local and national levels. She has been on the publications committee of the National Conference on Research in English.

She is not only an author of note in leading professional periodicals relating to the language arts, but is currently associated with a number of professional organizations including the American Educational Research Association, the Association of Teacher Educators, International Reading Association, National Conference on Research in English, National Council of Teachers of English, English Association of Ohio, Delta Kappa Gamma, Kappa Delta Pi, and Pi Lambda Theta.

BOTH THE workshops and the college course will be offered by Miami University. Miss Eileen Tway, a native Fayette Countian, will teach the workshops and any class that might follow.

Miss Tway is well-known in school ranks. She received her bachelor of science degree from Miami University in 1952, her master's degree from Columbia University in 1962, and her doctorate degree from Syracuse University in 1970.

Her academic experience includes serving as a public school teacher, staff member of the Chicago Laboratory Schools from 1963 until 1967, instructor at Wheelock College in Boston from 1967 until 1968, staff member at Syracuse University from 1968 until 1970, and has been an associate professor at Miami University since 1970.

Dismissal motion granted in drug possession case

Acting Municipal Court Judge Omar A. Schwart Monday granted a motion to dismiss and suppress evidence on grounds of unreasonable search in the charging of three Logan men with possession of marijuana.

The motion was filed by Robert L. Simpson, attorney for the defendants Dana C. Beougher, 22, Robert E. Schmitter, 21, and Mikel T. Sinnott, 19, all of Logan.

The defendants were arrested by a Fayette County Sheriff's deputy Sept. 15, 1974 at the intersection of U.S. 22 and Ohio 753 after a search of their auto produced a small quantity of marijuana.

According to Simpson, "The most important grounds for filing the motion for dismissal was the deputy had no reason to stop the defendants."

Simpson said the deputy testified he thought the driver might have been a juvenile so he stopped the auto.

BUT SIMPSON said once the deputy found the driver was not a juvenile, the investigation should have ended. Instead, Simpson said the deputy proceeded to search the vehicle and found a quantity of marijuana in the rear floor of the auto.

Simpson said the deputy then charged both the driver and two passengers with possession of marijuana.

Judge Schwart dismissed the charges against the three defendants upon good cause shown by Simpson, stating the search was unreasonable and beyond the circumstances.

In one other non-traffic case heard Monday, Judge Schwart handed a Leesburg man a suspended sentence on a charge of petty theft.

Mark E. Smith, 33, Rt. 2, Leesburg, was charged with petty theft of gasoline from the Greenline Equipment Co. Jan. 6 by Fayette County Sheriff's deputies.

Smith pleaded guilty to the charge and received the suspended six-month jail sentence pending three years good behavior.

Prayer breakfast draws 41 persons

Forty-one persons were present Tuesday for the weekly teen prayer breakfast for high school youths in grades 9-12 at the South Side Church of Christ.

"The Tears of Jesus" was the theme used for the meditation time, led by the Rev. Charles Richmond. Mary Ann Rudduck and Gretchen Owen, seniors at Washington Senior High School, led the group in several choruses.

After breakfast, Jon Creamer, teacher at WSHS, gave the devotional on, "What Shall a Man Give in Exchange for His Soul?" He told the youth that their souls are their most precious possessions. The next prayer breakfast will be held at 6:45 a.m. Feb. 4.
